

GERMANY IS GIVEN CHANCE TO YIELD

ALLIES SIGN AMISTICE CONDITIONS; IF ACCEPTED BY BERLIN THEY WILL END THE GREATEST WAR IN HISTORY

Washington, Nov. 5.—Armistice terms to be offered Germany have been agreed upon unanimously and signed by representatives of the allies and the United States in France.

If accepted, they will mean surrender and an immediate end of the war, leaving final peace terms to be dictated by the victors.

It is understood the terms are to be submitted to Germany immediately and that their publication in full will follow shortly.

The statement has been authorized that the drastic conditions under which Austria dropped out of the war today furnished an accurate indication of their nature.

Secretary of State Lansing made this statement tonight:

"According to an official statement received here tonight, the terms of the armistice to Germany have just been agreed to unanimously and signed by the allies in Paris.

"The report further states that complete diplomatic unity has been achieved."

(The President's outline of the probable armistice conditions to Germany as published Sunday follows:

1. Withdrawal of the German armies to a line thirty miles behind the Rhine, leaving their military equipment to the allies.

2. Surrender of the German naval base at Helgoland.

3. Surrender of the entire German navy, including submarines.

War Industries Board.

Priorities division, supplement No. 1, issued Oct. 1, 1918, to preference list No. 2, circular No. 20.

Effective at once, Preference List No. 2 (Circular No. 20), issued Sept. 3, 1918, by the Priorities Division of the War Industries board, is amended as follows:

Section 1.—Add to the list of industries the following:

Rubber.—Plants engaged principally in manufacturing rubber products, class IV.

Seeds.—Plants engaged principally in assembling, cleaning, treating, preparing, storing and shipping seeds for growing food and feed, and for growing medicinal and chemical plants (excluding flower seed as such), III.

Section 2.—Strike from pages 7 and 11 the following:

Fire Brick.—Plants engaged principally in manufacturing same, IV.

Insert in lieu thereof the following:

Refractories.—Plants engaged principally in producing refractories of any character, including fire clay brick and shapes, silica brick and shapes, magnesite brick and shapes, bauxite brick and shapes, ganister and dead burned magnesite and dead burned dolomite, IV.

Section 3.—Add to individual plants listed alphabetically by states, the following:

Mathieson & Hogeler Zinc Co., La Salle, Ill. III (changed from IV).

Geneva, Nov. 5.—Vienna was declared an armistice had been declared.

The streets were soon crowded with men and women and children, crying and embracing each other.

The general opinion is that food will follow peace.

The report that Emperor Charles has abdicated aroused little interest. The Austrian press is attempting to calm the population, emphasizing the fact that the armistice terms are of a most severe nature and involve great sacrifices to the empire and the people.

A Stuttering Clock.

A droll sort of a fellow, given to stuttering, met an old college chum on the street. They had some hours together and other things. As the tardy one stealthily ascended the stairs on reaching home out of the darkness came his wife's voice.

"What time is it?" she asked, sternly.

"It is 11:14 just one," he stammered.

The words were scarcely uttered when the old-fashioned clock on the landing gave four laborious strokes.

"Do you hear that?" she asked, sharply.

"But, my dear, dear," he rejoined pleasantly, "you mustn't mind that k-k-clock. It's 11-11-like me."

The Difference.

Flat head is quite as bad in politics as flat foot is in military life. Not only that, but 80 per cent of the flat foot cases are curable.—Houston Post.

LIET. SIMON DE LAGNEAU HAY

Commissioned at the Front, after having been Presented with a Victoria Cross by the British Government for "Gallantry and Devotion to Duty in Action."

MORE HONORS COME TO SIMON D. HAY; WINS BARS AT FRONT

one of his magnificent quarters.

We took possession, had a good meal, and then went on. I found this field post brief on one of the tables I had charge of a platoon at the time.

Lovingly yours, SIM.
Oct. 9, 1918.

Dear Family:

Just a word to let you know that the dope in the newspapers in regard to my receiving a medal from the British government is correct.

Today I received the following with the medal:

"Immediate rewards: Under authority delegated by his majesty the king, the field marshal commanding in chief has made the following awards for gallantry and devotion to duty in action."

"I don't deserve the blooming thing a bit more than any other fellow in the company that was in this stunt, but I suppose that they cannot dish it out to everybody, and so myself and another fellow in the company were picked for the honors." Nevertheless, it is not absolutely fair to the rest of them; much better if the company had some little badge as a whole, some ribbon or something of the kind signifying that all his (taken part).

However, I am glad that I am one of the deserving. Furthermore, it will serve to show that I have been through the mill. If a man hasn't a wound stripe or a medal there is no telling whether he has ever heard a gun shot. Believe me, after a fellow has been through a few tough days he feels none too good toward the fellows who hang around about forty miles back of the line. However, when we come right down to it, we depend on those fellows for our clothes and cats. There is a difference, though, between fighting in the front and fighting back where all is roses.

I wrote you yesterday telling you of my commission. Things are moving forward O. K. Outside of being tired and my chin burned by mustard gas I am very well.

Love to all, SIM.

PROCLAMATION

At the request of the government in Washington, I desire to call to the attention of the people of the City of Ottawa, and especially to the employers of the city and vicinity employing laborers in considerable numbers, the work being done by the U. S. Employment service of the Department of Labor.

It is the desire of the Department of Labor that all employers obtain labor only through the U. S. Employment Service.

This division is organized to meet war labor demands, and is for the centralized, scientific recruiting and distribution of labor, thus greatly diminishing labor turnover, and causing speedier production of war supplies and also causing a saving to both employers and employees and obviating the evils occasioned by private employment agencies, whose sole object is the obtaining of fees.

Having full confidence in the patriotism of the people of Ottawa, I know that they will co-operate with the government as above outlined.

Mayor of Ottawa, Illinois.

MARSHAL FOCH TO PRESENT TERMS

fifty miles, forcing the Germans into a new retreat.

American forces on the Meuse River are moving northward toward Sedan against definite resistance.

The German base positions at Geis and Marle are steadily being pocketed. The Germans are rapidly being forced out of France, and the British are now only six miles from Mauthausen.

In two days it is officially estimated the British have captured from 10,000 to 15,000 more German prisoners and 225 guns.

The Germans say since the reserve against the Americans and General Pershing's new drive was started on Friday, 17 divisions, or 24,000 men, have been identified on the firing line north of Verdun. The Americans are menacing the Meuse river lines upon which the German evidently planned to make a stand. Both the first and second American armies are in action and they now dominate the town of Beaumont, scarcely ten miles from the German stronghold at Sedan with its important lines of communication.

Berne, Nov. 5.—Military measures already have been taken at Bavaria as the result of the effect there of the withdrawal of Austria from the war, according to the Frankfurter Gazette.

NOVEL PACKAGE CABINET MADE

Protects Goods From Removal by Persons on the Outside.

Among new inventions recently patented is a device known as a double deck sanitary milk and grocery cabinet, that is a novel contrivance and a great convenience in dwellings.

It consists of a metallic box, telescoping to fit walls of different thicknesses, and designed to be built in, or fitted to houses already erected. The contrivance may be made in different sizes, but the model is about 12 inches in dimensions each way. On the outer door is a tray and when a bottle or parcel is placed within, the door is locked and cannot be released except from the inside. This done the cabinet is ready for another delivery.

ACCOMMODATING NIGHT CLERK.

Up to the night clerk's desk goes Abe Perlmuter, a Chicago traveling man. "I wonder," he says, "could you find me somebody to play a game of penicue for an hour or two to-night?"

"Why," says the clerk, "I guess so." And he runs his eyes over the register. "Boy," he calls, "page Mr. Gutwillig." Before long Mr. Gutwillig is found and introduced to the penicue-hungry Perlmuter, and a game is arranged.

"How did you know I played penicue?" Mr. Gutwillig asks the clerk. "Oh," begins the clerk, just then emerges from the bar a young man, triple-piled with wine. He staggers up to the desk and says, "Shas, I wanna fight! I've heard? I'm lookin' for a scrap!"

Thus the clerk, "Boy, page Mr. Kelly and Mr. O'Brien."

Topsy Turvy.

The plaintiff had been struck by an automobile which had hurried on without stopping, but as he managed to catch the number of the car he had the owner summoned to court.

The defendant claimed that his car had not been out of the garage on the day in question.

"If you were struck and thrown up in the air, as you claim, how could you make out the number before the car got out of sight?" he asked.

"I caught a glimpse of it just as I came down," answered the plaintiff.

"Ha, ha!" laughed the defendant, turning to the judge. "I see how the mistake was made. The number of my car is 666. This man was standing on his head at the time. The number of the car that struck him is 999."

Asking Too Much.

The mother of little six-year-old Mary had told her a number of times not to hitch her sled to passing sleighs, feeling that it was a dangerous practice. It was such a fascinating sport, however, that Mary could not resist it, and one day her mother saw her so skimming past the house behind a farmer's "bob."

When she came in from play she was taken to task, her mother saying severely, "Mary, haven't I told you that you must not hitch onto bobs? Besides, you know it is against the law."

Mary tossed her head. "Oh," she said, "don't talk to me about the law. It's all I can do to keep the Ten Commandments!"

FIND INDIAN FIREPLACE OF AN EXTINCT TRIBE

Probable Spot Where Algonquins Held Sacrifice of White Dogs to Wipe Out Their Sins

Authorities on Indian relics at Rochester, N. Y., are interested in the recent discovery on the shore of Owasco Lake of Algonquin remains, made by Arthur C. Parker, State archaeologist, especially in the finding of the site of a fireplace. The fireplace was the spot where the red men hundreds of years ago held their religious ceremony of the sacrifice of the white dog.

Alvin H. Dewey who has probably the finest collection of Indian relics in this section agrees with Mr. Parker that the fireplace is one of the most valuable discoveries connected with Indian life yet made in this country.

"Algonquin relics are not very plentiful," said Mr. Dewey. "When a relic village site is brought to view the excavation becomes very interesting. The spot where a religious ceremony took place is especially so, as these discoveries are the only history we have of the Algonquins, who undoubtedly were the prehistoric people of America."

Mr. Dewey added that the discovery strengthened the belief before held by students of Indian lore that the sacrifice of the white dog was practiced by the red men of all tribes for centuries.

The sacrificing of the white dog was to the Indians the most important of their religious ceremonies. It was celebrated annually. On the first day of the ceremony an Indian runner, or erior would go through the village and give notice that it was to take place. It was then the time for the people to purify themselves from sins committed through the year. When they had assembled the priest or medicine man would figuratively take the sins of the people and lay them on white dogs two or three of them. This act, it was believed, cleansed the people as a whole from their sins.

The dogs were then strangled with due ceremony, but not a drop of blood could be shed in the killing. The carcasses were placed on a pyramid of wood and a fire was started. While the bodies of the dogs were being consumed, the people called on the Great Spirit to forgive their sins. At a later period imitation dogs were used by the Indians.

Mr. Parker, who is conducting the excavations is a post graduate of Harvard University and a recognized authority on matters pertaining to Indians.

HE GETS GOLD FROM TAILINGS

Miners Interested in Process of Californian.

James A. Brent, who recently started an experimental plant at Sutter Creek, Cal., for treating the tailings from the mines of the neighborhood, has returned there after an absence of a few weeks, and intends prosecuting work in his line quite vigorously until mining men in the vicinity realize the value of his system for saving the values that are at present allowed to escape from the mills.

His plant is located at the foundry of the Knight Company, where he has made a number of demonstrations of interest to local mining men. His system has been worked most successfully, it is understood, at mines in Missouri, Arizona and Nevada.

SLEIGH RUNNERS FOR BUGGY

New Invention by an Iowa Veterinary Surgeon

Dr. William P. Rosenberger, a veterinary surgeon of Williams, Iowa, has just secured a patent upon sleigh runners for buggies which may be easily and quickly clamped to the axle of a buggy.

The runners are so arranged that they absorb all shocks of traveling over uneven ground, and keep a buggy from turning over when passing thru deep snow. The invention may be manufactured at small cost.

HAMMOCK FOR BABY IN AUTOS

Simple Contrivance for Use on Long Motor Trips.

A company at Seattle, Wash., recently has placed on the market a novel hammock, a simple contrivance to hold the baby on lone motor trips.

It is made of strong materials and hooks from the robe rail on the back of the front seats to any projection at the back of the rear seat. Adjustable straps become springs which protect the baby from any jar, and the hammock is built throughout so that accident to the infant is impossible.
